

Dillon Fuchsman, a post-doctoral fellow at the Sinquefeld Center, and colleagues from the University of Arkansas are looking into the COVID-19 pandemic's effect on teachers' plans to exit teaching. In March 2021, Dillon's team conducted a nationally representative survey of over 1,000 teachers. Their results show that 42 percent of survey respondents reported